Designation of Research Committee

INSTRUCTIONS

1. The dissertation supervisor serves as chairman of the research committee. In consultation with the student, the supervisor should nominate two or three other members of the committee. The committee must contain at least two SEAS faculty members, at least one of whom is a senior faculty member. The supervisor should secure the agreement of those nominated to serve, but they need not sign this form. The CHD must approve the composition of the research committee.

2. The original research committee must be nominated within one week after the successful completion of the qualifying examination. A functioning research committee must be in being throughout the rest of the student’s graduate career, and the original committee should be reconstituted as necessary to accomplish this, by resubmitting this form.

3. The research committee monitors the student’s progress periodically and reports to the CHD, and must approve the final dissertation.
